Question 21

Description: Four people express their opinions about the new station. Read their comments and answer the questions below. Person A: Originally, the city planners promised money for building a hospital initially. I don't understand why they switched to construct a new station then. This new station won't solve the traffic jams, and it will require the city's budget every year. Therefore, we won't have money left to build a hospital while health should be a priority, I believe it's better to invest in health services instead. Person B:

The new station will be in the residential area, close to the hospital and university. We already have buses for getting around, and even though they might be slow sometimes, that's not a reason for being late. I always go to work on time, and I think everyone should work on their personal schedule. People often blame traffic for being late, but I manage to avoid that. Person C: I take the train to work every day, and I am tired of the overcrowded trains. I believe investing in a new station is worthwhile, as it could enhance the transportation system and alleviate congestion at the current station. We should consider placing the new station in densely populated residential areas, as this would improve train travel and help reduce crowding. Person D: The city planners say that investing in a new station may not be necessary. Both the current station and the bus services appear to work well. Although I don't use trains regularly, I have found the service to be satisfactory whenever I do. The existing facilities are adequate, and I don't see a pressing need to spend money on a new station at this time.

Question 22

Description: Read the passage quickly. Choose a heading for each numbered paragraph (1–7) from the drop-down box. There is one more heading than you need. CONSUMER AGE OF THE 20TH CENTURY

1. _ In today's consumer-driven society, the focus is often on acquiring new products. However, adopting a more sustainable approach to consumption can have positive effects on the environment and our wallets. By ensuring proper maintenance and repair, we can extend the lifespan of things, leading to reduced waste and conserved resources. Companies can also play a crucial role by designing products with durability in mind, encouraging a shift towards a more eco-friendly and responsible consumer culture.

1. A reason for secrecy
2. The difficulty of being generous
3. Consumption trends
4. Making things last longer
5. Still relevant to our times
6. A reason for making a compromise
7. Important lesson for us all
8. A temporary experiment

2. _ Temporary consumption trends, like fad diets or fast fashion, are common in the modern world. While they might seem harmless, they can contribute to overconsumption and unnecessary waste. Being mindful of our consumption habits and avoiding temporary fads can help us make more sustainable choices. Opting for long-lasting, classic styles and sustainable products can reduce the negative impact of these fleeting trends on the environment.

1. A reason for secrecy
2. The difficulty of being generous
3. Consumption trends
4. Making things last longer
5. Still relevant to our times
6. A reason for making a compromise
7. Important lesson for us all
8. A temporary experiment

3. _ In some instances, luxurious consumption has become a social status symbol. People may feel pressured to show off their wealth by purchasing luxury items, even if they don't really need them. This behavior can be harmful to the environment and lead to financial strain. Encouraging a culture of modesty and frugality can counteract the negative effects of conspicuous consumption, promoting a more sustainable and equitable society.

1. A reason for secrecy
2. The difficulty of being generous
3. Consumption trends
4. Making things last longer
5. Still relevant to our times
6. A reason for making a compromise
7. Important lesson for us all
8. A temporary experiment

4. _ Despite the rise of digital media and online streaming, physical books, vinyl records, and other tangible goods still hold value to many. Some people find joy in collecting items that have sentimental significance or represent their interests. Balancing these interests with mindful consumption can lead to a more meaningful and less wasteful lifestyle, as appreciating and caring for possessions can extend their lifespan and reduce the need for frequent replacements.

1. A reason for secrecy
2. The difficulty of being generous
3. Consumption trends
4. Making things last longer
5. Still relevant to our times
6. A reason for making a compromise
7. Important lesson for us all
8. A temporary experiment

5. _ In a world driven by consumerism, practicing generosity can be challenging. We may feel compelled to constantly acquire more for ourselves, making it hard to prioritize giving to others or supporting charitable causes. However, embracing a more generous mindset can bring about a sense of fulfillment and happiness. By focusing on giving rather than accumulating, we can contribute positively to society and make a difference in the lives of others.

1. A reason for secrecy
2. The difficulty of being generous
3. Consumption trends
4. Making things last longer
5. Still relevant to our times
6. A reason for making a compromise
7. Important lesson for us all
8. A temporary experiment

6. _ As consumers, we often face choices that involve making compromises. Balancing our desires for convenience and luxury with the need for sustainability and responsible consumption can be tough. However, making thoughtful compromises can help us strike a balance between personal enjoyment and environmental impact. Opting for eco-friendly alternatives, even if they require some adjustments, can lead to a more sustainable lifestyle that benefits both ourselves and the planet.

1. A reason for secrecy
2. The difficulty of being generous
3. Consumption trends
4. Making things last longer
5. Still relevant to our times
6. A reason for making a compromise
7. Important lesson for us all

8. A temporary experiment

7. _ Consumption has a profound impact on our lives and the environment. By making conscious choices, such as making things last longer, resisting temporary trends, and being mindful of the true value of possessions, we can promote sustainability and reduce waste. Additionally, learning to be generous and making thoughtful compromises can lead to a more fulfilling and responsible consumer culture. As consumers, each one of us has the power to shape the future and create a more sustainable world for generations to come.

1. A reason for secrecy

Question 23 (File nghe 780)

Description: In this part, I'm going to ask you to describe a picture. Then I will ask you two questions about it. You will have 45 seconds for each response. Begin speaking when you hear this sound.

File nghe: 4090

Suggest: In the picture, I can see a woman standing in what appears to be a supermarket. She seems to be looking closely at a red bottle, possibly reading the label to make sure it's what she needs. The background is quite blurry, so I can't make out specific details, but I can assume she is focused on her task. Judging from her appearance, she might be a housewife doing her daily shopping. She looks calm and concentrated. Overall, this picture captures a simple yet beautiful moment of everyday life.

Tell me about a time you shopped in a small local market.

File nghe: 4091

Suggest: The last time I shopped in a small local market was just a couple of days ago. I went with my friends after work to pick up some fresh vegetables and rice for dinner. I really enjoy shopping in these markets because the produce is fresh, and it's a nice way to unwind after a long day. The atmosphere is lively, and it's a great place to connect with the community while supporting local vendors.

Why do people love shopping on the Internet?

File nghe: 4092

Suggest: People love shopping online because it's incredibly convenient. You can shop at any time of day without leaving your home, and you have access to a wide range of products. Online shopping also allows you to easily compare prices and read reviews, which helps in making better purchasing decisions. In addition, many online stores offer discounts and special deals that are not available in physical stores, making it even more attractive.

Question 23 (File nghe 781)

Description: In this part, I'm going to ask you to compare two pictures, and I will then ask you two questions about them. You will have 45 seconds for each response. Begin speaking when you hear this sound.

Describe 2 pictures.

File nghe: 4093

Suggest: Both pictures are so beautiful, let me describe it/ Both pictures show me about men eating foods. In the first picture, I can see there is a man sitting at a table, happily eating a colorful plate of fresh vegetables. I guess he is happy because I see him smiling. In the second picture, there are three men gathered around a table, sharing a large pizza. They're laughing and chatting together so I guess they are friends or colleagues. Personally, I love both pictures because they are so beautiful.

Which food do you prefer?

File nghe: 4094

Suggest: Each picture has its own attractions, but I prefer the one with the man eating vegetables. Vegetables are a great way to stay fit and healthy, providing essential nutrients that boost energy and support overall well-being, making me feel my best.

File nghe: 4095

Suggest: People like to eat different types of food because it makes meals more fun and interesting. Trying new flavors and dishes can be an exciting experience. It also helps people relax and enjoy their time with friends and family, making eating a joyful occasion.

Question 23 (File nghe 782)

Description: In this part, I'm going to show you a picture and ask you three questions. You will have one minute to think about your answers before you start speaking. You will have two minutes to answer all three questions. Begin speaking when you hear this sound. Look at the photograph.

A time you watched or played an extreme sports How do you feel when you played extreme sports Only adults are allowed to play extreme sports. What do you think about it?

File nghe: 4096

Suggest: Now, let me answer the three questions. As for the first one, the last time I watched an extreme sport was about two months ago when I visited Da Nang. The city is famous for its stunning beaches, including My Khe, one of the most beautiful beaches in the world. While I was there, I had the opportunity to watch people engage in extreme water sports, like jet-skiing and parasailing. It was an exciting experience, even though I was just a spectator. Moving on to the second question, the last time I participated in an extreme sport was during the same trip. I tried parasailing for the first time, and I felt an overwhelming sense of thrill and excitement. Being up in the air, with nothing but the wind rushing past me, gave me such an adrenaline rush. It was an unforgettable moment, and I felt incredibly happy. For the final question, I agree that extreme sports should generally be limited to adults. These activities can be very dangerous, and they require a high level of physical and mental preparedness. Adults are better equipped to handle the risks involved, and they're more likely to follow safety protocols. That's all I would like to share, and thank you for listening.
