Question 21

Description: Four people respond to the interview on their attitude toward art. Read their interviews and answer the questions below. Person A I know the names of some famous artists, and I recognize some paintings. However, I only go to exhibitions when my friends want to. I find that seeing exhibitions is often boring, and while I appreciate the skill it takes to create art, I can't help but feel that many galleries lack excitement. Despite this, I do have some artistic techniques myself; I enjoy painting in my free time, but I prefer to create rather than just observe. Person B I think that looking at art is a personal experience. I much prefer to see art on my own, where I can take my time to appreciate each piece without distractions. I think visitors to galleries should focus more on the art itself rather than chatting or using their phones. When I'm alone with a painting, I can truly connect with it and reflect on what the artist intended. Person C I find art fascinating. I have developed a good knowledge about various art movements and techniques over the years. Each piece tells a story, and I love discovering the history behind them. The colors, forms, and emotions captured in art pieces captivate my imagination. I could spend hours discussing and analyzing art, and I always look forward to learning more. Person D I have great memories associated with art, as I have been going to numerous art exhibitions in my whole life. I cherish the moments spent with friends and family, exploring galleries together. Seeing art with people close to me adds a special dimension to the experience; we share our thoughts and feelings about the pieces we encounter. These shared experiences have created lasting bonds and wonderful memories.

Question 22

Description: Read the text. Match the headings to the paragraphs. There is one heading that you will not use. Frozen Antarctica

1. _ This continent is governed by an international agreement known as the Antarctic Treaty System, established in 1961. This treaty ensures that the region is utilized for peaceful purposes and encourages global scientific collaboration. While no nation officially owns this land, several countries—Argentina, Australia, Chile, France, New Zealand, Norway, and the United Kingdom—assert territorial claims. The treaty forbids military activity, resource extraction, and nuclear tests, designating the area for research and conservation efforts. As a result, scientists from various countries gather to study this unique environment, sharing their discoveries for the benefit of humanity.

1. Where is the end of the earth?
2. Less effort needed
3. Race to the pole
4. Hidden geography
5. First step on the ice
6. Why is it so cold?
7. Who is in charge?

2. _ Setting foot on Antarctica is a significant event for any explorer or scientist. The journey typically begins in South America, where travelers board a ship or a plane to cross the Drake Passage. Once they arrive, the first step on the ice is both exhilarating and daunting. Visitors are immediately struck by the vast expanse of white, the crisp, cold air, and the breathtaking scenery. The sound of crunching ice underfoot serves as a reminder of the remote and untouched nature of this continent, a place where human footprints are few and far between.

1. Where is the end of the earth?
2. Less effort needed
3. Hidden geography
4. Race to the pole
5. First step on the ice
6. Why is it so cold?
7. Who is in charge?

3. _ Positioned around the South Pole, Antarctica represents the southernmost point on the planet. The continent's remoteness contributes to its mystique, drawing adventurers and researchers alike. The harsh conditions, including bitter cold and relentless winds, create a sense of otherworldliness. In many ways, it feels like the last frontier on Earth, where the landscape remains largely unspoiled and the natural world thrives in its purest form

2. Less effort needed
3. Race to the pole
4. Hidden geography
5. First step on the ice
6. Why is it so cold?
7. Who is in charge?

4. _ Beneath the massive ice sheets lies a concealed landscape that reveals much about the planet's geological history. This region hosts the largest ice mass globally, covering approximately 98 percent of its area. The ice conceals a variety of geological features, including mountains and valleys. Researchers analyze ice cores extracted from deep within the layers to uncover details about past climates and atmospheric conditions. These investigations provide vital information for understanding global climate change and its potential implications for our world.

1. Where is the end of the earth?
2. Less effort needed
3. Race to the pole
4. Hidden geography

5. First step on the ice
6. Why is it so cold?
7. Who is in charge?

5. _ The pursuit of the southernmost point in the early 20th century captivated many. Adventurers such as Robert Falcon Scott and Roald Amundsen undertook perilous journeys to achieve this milestone. Amundsen's successful expedition in 1911 marked a significant achievement in exploration, while Scott's tragic story underscored the risks associated with such endeavors. These tales of courage and ambition continue to inspire modern explorers, highlighting the fascination that this harsh terrain holds.

1. Where is the end of the earth?
2. Less effort needed
3. Race to the pole
4. Hidden geography
5. First step on the ice
6. Why is it so cold?
7. Who is in charge?

6. _ Recent advancements in technology have made reaching this icy expanse easier than in the past. Modern icebreakers and advanced aircraft enable safer and more efficient travel. This accessibility has led to a rise in interest for tourism, allowing more people to experience the breathtaking beauty of the landscape. However, the increase in visitors raises concerns about the potential environmental impact, emphasizing the necessity for sustainable practices to safeguard this delicate ecosystem.

1. Where is the end of the earth?
2. Less effort needed
3. Race to the pole
4. Hidden geography
5. First step on the ice
6. Why is it so cold?
7. Who is in charge?

7. _ The extreme low temperatures in this region result mainly from its high elevation and geographic positioning. Being located over the South Pole means it receives minimal direct sunlight, especially during the prolonged winter months of darkness. Average temperatures can plummet below -60°C (-76°F), with summer still remaining quite frigid. The reflective nature of ice further contributes to the chilling climate. Understanding these climatic influences is crucial for scientists studying global weather systems and shifts in climate patterns.

Question 23 (File nghe 601)

Description: In this part, I'm going to ask you to compare two pictures, and I will then ask you two questions about them. You will have 45 seconds for each response. Begin speaking when you hear this sound.

Describe 2 pictures

File nghe: 3286

Suggest: Both pictures show me about gardens. In the first picture, I can see 3 people, 1 man and 2 women. They are wearing casual clothes. It is clear that they are doing gardening, I guess they are planting trees. In the second picture, there are 2 girls and one grandfather. The grandfather is teaching his grandchildren to water plants. I guess all of them are feeling happy because I can see the smile on their faces. Personally, I prefer the second picture because I think watering trees is easier than planting.

What are the attractions of the two pictures?

File nghe: 3287

Suggest: Each picture has its own attractions. Regarding the first picture, a group of adults works together, planting in a garden, which shows how gardening can bring people closer. Turning to the second picture, I think gardening can be fun and educational for kids.

What is the appeal of growing plants and doing gardening?

File nghe: 3289

Suggest: Growing plants and doing gardening is beneficial for various reasons. First, it is fun and interesting. Second, it is a wonderful way to expand social knowledge and gain more experience. Finally, it allows people to connect with nature and enjoy the beauty of plants and flowers.

Question 23 (File nghe 603)

Description: In this part, I'm going to show you a picture and ask you three questions. You will have one minute to think about your answers before you start speaking. You will have two minutes to answer all three questions. Begin speaking when you hear this sound. Look at the photograph.

Describe a time when you visited someone. What do you think about having unexpected visitors? Some people like to live in small communities, while others like to live in big cities. What is your opinion?

File nghe: 3290

Suggest: Now, I am going to answer the 3 questions, which are: Describe a time when you visited someone. What do you think about having unexpected visitors? Some people like to live in small communities, while others like to live in big cities. What is your opinion? Regarding the first question, let me tell you about a time that I visited someone and it was when I wanted to make a trip to Danang City. Well, Da Nang is famous for its beaches, and for example one of them is My Khe, which is one of the most wonderful beaches in the world, so every year, there are many tourists going to the area to see the beauty of the beach. Therefore, going to this city was extremely expensive for me at that time. It was when I was a second-year student at university. At that time, I really wanted to take a trip to Danang city to visit my friend. After saving money for a long time, I finally decided to visit her in Danang city. Turning to the second question, I think having unexpected visitors makes me feel very delighted. As for the final question, I prefer to live in small communities because it is more quiet and peaceful. Thanks to that, I can connect to nature.

Question 23 (File nghe 599)

Description: In this part, I'm going to ask you to describe a picture. Then I will ask you two questions about it. You will have 45 seconds for each response. Begin speaking when you hear this sound.

Describe this picture

File nghe: 3279

Suggest: In the picture, I can see a dad and his son in the kitchen/ in the living room. In the background, I cannot see anything because it is so blurry. In the front, there is a man and his son eating breakfast on the table. It is clear that they are eating bread and drinking orange juice. I guess they are feeling happy. The picture is so beautiful that it was taken by a professional.

What do you eat for breakfast?

File nghe: 3282

Suggest: This is an interesting question, let me answer it. For breakfast, I usually eat something simple and healthy. I often eat bread and sticky rice with my father for breakfast at home in the morning. It allows me to have enough energy for the whole day. That's my answer.

Do you think people should eat breakfast?

File nghe: 3285

Suggest: I agree that people should eat breakfast for various reasons. First, it is good for health because breakfast allows people to have enough energy for the whole day. Second, it is a good way to lower the risks of diseases, such as stomach ache. For me, I always eat fruit for breakfast every morning.
